These recordings are linked to the visual representation of people present. The selection of people is purely random. Upon entering the event site / the exhibition halls or purchasing an admission ticket, the persons present automatically give their consent to the free publication in the above manner, without the need for a declaration by the person concerned. If the person concerned does not agree to the publication in individual cases, we ask that you notify the responsible photographer immediately.

Inquiries about your own recordings can only be made in writing to the exhibition management at service@munichshow.com.

However, special entry conditions (such as quarantine regulations) are not a reason for cancellation and must be observed.
